Re Item V.

- The following documents are referred to in this communication:
 D1: US 5 997 317 A (PEI WEN-CHUN ET AL) 7 December 1999 (1999-12-07)
- 2 Document D1, which is considered to represent the most relevant state of the art, discloses:

An electrical connector for connecting between an electronic component and a circuit board via a plurality of solder balls soldering onto the circuit board, comprising an insulative housing forming a mounting surface adjacent to the circuit board and a receiving surface for supporting the electronic component, the insulative housing defining a plurality of terminal channels extending through the mounting surface and the receiving surface; and a plurality of conductive terminals respectively received in the corresponding terminal channels, the terminals having a mounting portion to locate the solder ball

From this, the subject-matter of independent claim 1 differs in that:

The conductive terminal has a first wall, a second wall connecting with the first wall and a third wall connecting with the second wall opposite to the first wall, a horizontal portion extending and bending from one end of the first wall adjacent to the mounting surface towards the third wall, and a vertical portion extending from the third wall and corresponding to the horizontal portion in a certain angle, the horizontal and the vertical portion forming a mounting portion to steadily locate the solder ball.

- 2.1 The subject-matter of claims 1 and 6 is therefore novel (Article 33(2) PCT)
 The problem to be solved by the present invention may be regarded as:
 - Providing an improved conductive terminal to locate and connect the solder ball.
- 2.2 The solution to this problem proposed in claims 1 and 6 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) for the following reasons:

The terminal provides in a simple manner an improved mounting portion for the solder ball. There is no hint for this solution in the prior art.

- 2.3 Claims 2-5 are dependent on claim 1 and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.
- 2.4 Claims 7-11 are dependent on claim 6 and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.
- 3 The invention relates to a conductive terminal and a connector with such terminals which have obviously an industrial applicability.
